EYFS Tigers

Week 6 Autumn 1 2024

The children are really feeling very settled now in Tigers and enjoyed their first non-uniform day on Thursday when they wore yellow for 'World Mental Health' day with the idea of raising awareness about mental health and raising donations for the charity Young Minds. We have had lots of opportunities this week to think about the things that make us feel happy and sad. The children completed their faces which they then brought home to share with their families showing a happy and sad face. We have continued to use the 'Colour Monster' story by Anna Llenas to discuss the wider range of emotions and feelings we all experience. We have talked about how no emotion is wrong and that it is important to think about what we do with our emotions. The children have worked hard to make two books all about Tiger class which are on display in the reading corner - do have a look at the next open door.

The children have completed their senses monster which are on display in our corridor and there is also a display of some of their 'Dino - Roar' topic work on a board in Tigers. There is even more to see in their learning journey books at open door on a Monday or Thursday. The children really do love sharing these with you all. In maths this week we have been comparing quantities through mass, capacity and size with lots of practical activities to stimulate language and discussions.

We have looked at our Tiger class rules and talked about how we can all be good friends in Tigers and help each other. We have started to fill our kindness jar - with the hope that if we can fill it before Christmas we can enjoy a Christmas party with our friends.

A huge thanks to all those parents who managed to make our reading meeting this week, we really do appreciate your time. The children have started on their reading journeys with twice daily phonic sessions, fun with learning Tricky Words (sight words) alongside their own individual paths on sound recognition and blending. It is an exciting journey they are beginning on and we again thank you for your support in this.

As always if you have any questions please come and ask.
